Applications are invited for the post of Editorial Board Member for the Journal of Research in Nursing.

The Journal of Research in Nursing is a leading peer reviewed journal that contributes knowledge to health and social care policy and nursing practice. Each issue contains a variety of papers and reviews within a specific theme, with contributions from experts in the field.

Applications are invited for membership of the JRN Editorial Board. The Board is currently seeking to make two appointments, as part of its programme of refreshment.

Expressions of interest, outlining why you would like to be considered as a Board Member for the journal, and what you feel you would bring to the Board, with your full CV should be sent to jrn@sagepub.co.uk by 9th December 2012. If you would like to discuss this position please email the editor Dr Ann McMahon jrneditor@btinternet.com

Board Members receive full online access to the journal, and the issue archive as a benefit of the position.

Journal of Research in Nursing (JRN)

Editorial Board

Terms of Reference

The volunteer JRN Editorial Board will provide ideas, input, oversight, contacts and moral support to the Editor(s)-in-Chief, to ensure the Journal of Research in Nursing maintains and extends its reputation as a source of high quality information for nurses and policymakers.

The JRN Editorial Board will consist of UK based highly skilled, committed professionals and academics of international standing. It will seek to reflect the Journal’s various constituencies: researchers, nurses in practice, educators and policy makers, using their skills to achieve the Journal’s objectives. The JRN Editorial Board will include a maximum of 12 members and will be assisted by an International Editorial Advisory Board.

Membership of the JRN Editorial Board will be determined by the Editor(s)-in-Chief in conjunction with the existing Editorial Board. A new member shall be nominated by 2 board members, and elected by a two-thirds majority vote of the full editorial board. Members will serve for a period of 4 years, in most circumstances renewable once.

In agreeing to sit on the Board, JRN Editorial Board members will be expected to assist the Editor(s)-in-Chief of the Journal to commission, review, solicit and submit relevant papers for the Journal and support Journal efforts to influence health and social care policy and inform nursing practice, education and research.

The JRN Editorial Board will support and advise the Editor(s)-in-Chief to maintain Journal principles underlying the editorial integrity and independence of the Journal.

JRN Editorial Board members are expected to edit at least one edition of the Journal during each term of office.

The JRN Editorial Board will meet three times per year to receive a report on Journal progress from the Editorial team and the publisher and to discuss and agree future strategy.

The JRN Editorial Board will keep these terms of reference under review.
